TUESDAY NOVEMBER 12, 1907.

The Civic Federation suggests building the coin. First get the coin.

Notwithstanding the reported coolness, Kaiser Wilhelm is still on calling terms with King Edward.

Isn't it about time something was done to forward the construction of the new Honolulu High School?

Russia's Parliament is now controlled by the reactionaries, so we may expect to witness the horrors of representative government when it falls into evil hands.

When history is written one story of the late New York panic will be told under the title of the "Punishment of Mr. Heinze," or "Why Lawson Returned to the Standard Oil Camp."

The financial stringency moved from the East to the West. New York conditions are notably improved and the good influence is moving in the same channels, and in this direction. Confidence is returning.

November 16 will be a proud day for Oklahoma. Her star of Statehood will then be placed on "Old Glory." Let it remind Hawaii of the proper destiny of a Territory and inspire a determination to win it.

California laws are probably mandatory in requiring coin for the payment of taxes, else there would be no necessity for a special session of the Legislature to prevent the locking up of coin needlessly in Government treasury vaults.

Philippine boosters are playing heavy on both ends of the game. They say they must have tariff concessions in order to live. They also say they can beat Java in their own market without tariff concessions. If that's the case, why put American business men out of business by allowing the concession?

San Francisco's plague figures are being aired amply. No one supposes that it does San Francisco any particular good. The experience of the Coast cities, however, should benefit Hawaii indirectly by educating them up to an appreciation of the folly of becoming excited when scare stories get going regarding conditions in this port.

PHILIPPINE SUGAR PRODUCTION FROM PHILIPPINE STANDPOINT.

The Philippine tariff question will be one of the foremost subjects considered by the Congress that begins its long session the first of next month.

Hawaii of course opposes the free admission of Philippine sugar. One of the points raised to show the people of this Territory the folly of their ways is the alleged fact that the Philippines cannot produce enough sugar to seriously interfere with the production of either these islands, the mainland sugar-beet factories, or the Louisiana planters.

This may be true. We doubt it. One thing deserves notice: When the people of the Philippines are talking of the future of their country, they picture the future of sugar in most glowing colors.

Witness a recent industrial edition of the Manila Daily Bulletin.

The Manila Bulletin finds that there are thousands of acres of exceptionally good sugar lands on the islands of Negros and Panay. All needed is money and modern mills, to put them on a footing with the famous Java sugar areas. That is what the Manila Bulletin says. The exact words in this connection follow:

"Just think of the great market for sugar in China and Japan. They use Java sugar there now. Why? Because in Java they have central sugar mills, where the highest percentage of sugar is extracted from the cane at the lowest cost. They send centrifugals to China, where it easily outclasses the raw sugar of the Philippines. Men who have studied the question carefully say that if the Philippines sugar industry was run on the same lines today as it is in Java the Philippines product would crowd that of her neighbor out of the Far Eastern field."

If the Philippine sugar can crowd out that of her neighbor Java in its own field, it is remarkable to claim that the competition of free Philippine sugar is of no moment to our people now endeavoring to make a living from sugar produced in fields much less favorable.

Referring again to development of the sugar industry in the various municipalities, we find that the "people of San Carlos want a central mill to handle the annual crop from some forty square miles of the finest sugar land in the famous island of Negros." They certainly have good-sized areas to work on.

This "famous island of Negros" has in the valley of the Ilog river "one of the most beautiful sections of Oriental Negros and one of the best sugar-raising districts of the Philippines." "Experts have declared the soil here to be as well suited to this product as anywhere in the world, a strong statement but not hard to believe when one looks at the fine fields of cane which even imperfect cultivation produces. Once planted here, the cane continues to grow from eight to ten years before replanting is necessary, and no fertilizer whatever is used."

We doubt that there is any section of Hawaii, Louisiana or the best sugar States that can come anywhere near equaling this valley of the Ilog.

Here is another ray of light on the remarkable productiveness of the Negros soil: "The movement has been rather retrograde. There have been ten years of war, famine, locusts, diseases among the cattle, and adverse legislation that have put Philippine sugar at a disadvantage in the markets of the world. Yet the investigator will find that the real source of the stagnation of the past dozen years has been due, principally, to the withdrawal of capital and the subsequent lack of that spirit of enterprise that belongs to the races of the temperate zone. The land of Negros is as rich as ever, and under proper management will yield more than ever before. The climate is as generous and the rainfall always assures the necessary amount of moisture. There are great markets close at hand in which the product of the Negros hacienda ought to find ready sale. It is not dependent upon the United States tariff."

Prosperity of this sugar section of Negros is not dependent upon the United States. Then why the need for tinkering with the tariff in behalf of the sugar-grower? And what would be the result if the tariff were tinkered with?

We learn from the Manila Bulletin that under a conservative estimate the sugar produced within the municipality of La Carlota amounts to ten thousand tons per annum. Not a very large amount. But, adds the Manila authority, "The country is capable of more than double the output."

Negros is not the only one. Again we quote from the Manila authority:

"One often hears it said in Iloilo that the island of Panay has better sugar land than Negros. There are vast tracts of land within the province of Iloilo that are adapted to the cultivation of cane."

The labor problem is a vexed question the world over. Note what the Manila paper says of the labor conditions in these sugar sections that offer such good land and opportunities:

"In the Philippines the laboring class is not agitated by those elements which make it a specter to capital in almost all other countries. A knowledge of the people of the locality from which the laborer is drawn properly employed in his direction produces excellent effect. The vital thing in the employment of labor is the cost of the net result. Most eloquent complimentary testimony on Philippine labor is the experience of the firms which have employed it exclusively in the construction of the Manila sewer system, in laying and operating the Manila electric railway lines and in the construction of the railways on Luzon and the Southern Islands, as well as on the haciendas, in factories and elsewhere where labor is of vital importance in the calculation of the requisites for the successful issue of an enterprise."

So you see it makes a difference what audience they are addressing, whether sugar production in the Philippines has great future possibilities.

BULLETIN GIRLS AT FOREST GROVE

Grand Receptions And Luscious Fruits Galore

The Forest Grove Times of Forest Grove, Oregon, publishes the following in its Oct. 24 issue:

FROM FAIR HAWAII

Nine Young Ladies from Honolulu

VISIT FOREST GROVE.

Edyth Tozier Weathered and Charges Tour the Coast as Guests of Honolulu Bulletin.

Last Thursday the 12:20 train from Portland brought Mrs. Edyth Tozier Weathered and her party of Hawaiian young ladies. They were met at the depot by a committee consisting of Principal Bates, of Tuvaluin Academy, Wheelock Bates, of Tuvaluin Academy, Wheelock Bates, Misses Manche Langley and Bertha Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stuart. The committee had a wreath of flowers for each young lady which was placed around their necks in the manner in which they wear them in their island home. There they are called leis and it is the custom to place them on those to whom one wishes to show esteem or respect. The committee escorted the party to their hotel and afterwards to the University where the campus and buildings were inspected. After a short rest the young ladies were taken in hand by Misses Manche Langley, Esther Silvers, Wheelock Bates, Gordon Clapp and Haskell Ferrin and were escorted to David's Hill, where a fine view is to be had of the valley. Here they were welcomed by Mr. Bailey, of the David vineyard, and given the freedom of the place. They were loaded down with great bunches of luscious grapes. There were many trees and shrubs that were new to them and they were interested in everything they saw. In showing them the large bunches of nistele on the hill, Mrs. Weathered told something that was something they missed in the islands, but he was informed by Miss Callie Lucas that they got along very nicely without it.

In the evening an informal reception was tendered the party in Marsh Hall, which was largely attended and everybody enjoyed the occasion immensely.

Principal Bates acted as master of ceremonies and President Ferrin welcomed the party on behalf of the University. Mrs. Weathered responded in a most pleasing and told something of the party of its travels and why they were merely touring the coast and not visiting the great cities of the United States. She said that it was worth a great deal more to the young ladies to get acquainted with the people on this coast than it would do to see some of the large cities and have only a memory left, while as it is they are forming acquaintances and friendships that will be lasting. She gave some descriptions that were very interesting. The people of Hawaii are among the most pathetic that are to be found anywhere that the Stars and Stripes wave over and this fact was borne out fully by the way in which the young ladies sang "America."

The young ladies sang several songs in the native tongue and some in English and Miss Kathryn Shannon sang a beautiful solo, but the climax of the evening was the singing of a song composed while en route and added to after coming to Oregon. The words follow:

(Tune, "My Bonnie")
Here's to the land of Hawaii,
The beautiful Isle far away
Where the sunshine and the birds and the flowers
Make life one long happy day.

(Chorus)
Sleep on, dream on,
Hawaii, Hawaii for me, for me;
Sleep on, dream on,
Hawaii, Hawaii for me.

And here's to the land of the roses,
Hawaii's best greetings we bring,
And when we return to our homeland,
Her praises we'll continue to sing.

(Chorus)
Sleep on, dream on,
Hawaii, Hawaii for me, for me;
Sleep on, dream on,
Hawaii, Hawaii for me.

(Refrain)
Sleep on, dream on,
Hawaii, Hawaii for me, for me;
Sleep on, dream on,
Hawaii, Hawaii for me.

(Chorus)
Sleep on, dream on,
Hawaii, Hawaii for me, for me;
Sleep on, dream on,
Hawaii, Hawaii for me.

The party was sent out as guests of the Honolulu Bulletin and consists of Mrs. Edyth Tozier Weathered, chaperone, Misses Bernice K. Dwight, M. Hester Lemon, Emma M. Rose, Callie Lucas, of Honolulu; Daisy Todd, Hilo; Katherine Sudler, Hakalau; Hattie Saffery, Honokaa; Lillian Menden and Pose Aloia, Kapaa. The party left on the 9 o'clock train Friday morning for Hillsboro. They will tour western Washington and the cities of Victoria and Vancouver in British Columbia, returning home about the first of December.

KILOHANAS AFTER MEMORIAL

that even if the structure should be removed to Ala Park, such an has been suggested by Chairman Hueston of the Board of Supervisors, the arch would remain and form an imposing gateway to Honolulu.

It is understood that plans for the arch and the additions which it is proposed to make to the old building have already been prepared by Architect Kerr, and will be submitted to the McKinley Memorial Committee in the near future. In the meantime several of the members of that body have been seen today, but none of these had heard anything of the matter, and, at least some of them seemed to be rather skeptical as to the advisability of adopting the plan.

In the meantime the Kilohana Art League people are not the only ones who have an eye on the memorial money. Professor Wood of the Normal School is still working on his plan to have a stadium built on the slope behind the Normal School, for which purpose it is also suggested that this fund be spent. The plans for this thing have been drawn by A. R. Gurrey, Jr.

The matter of the removal of the old fishmarket building to Ala Park will be taken up tomorrow by the Civic Federation at a meeting to be held at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, but it is not probable that the Memorial fund will be suggested for use for this purpose.
